Myrtyl Ross Gives Program Saturday

College Will Sponsor Dramatic Clinic Here For C. Y. O. Nov. 2

Raleigh Club Induction Held Last Thursday For Large Class Of Rookies

Yep! it's all over now. The members of the Freshman class have been officially inducted into the Raleigh Club.

Meeting in the College Auditorium, the old and new members of the club were addressed by the Very Rev. President of St. Joseph's College, the V. Rev. Aloys Dirksen, C.P.P.S., Rev. Norman Koller, C.P.P.S., and the club moderator, Rev. Kroekle, C.P.P.S.

The speeches were followed by three short moving pictures — a comic, an educational two reeler, and an ice carnival picture.

Interviewed last Saturday morning, the Rev. Father Weist, C.P.P.S., stated that the new projector would be used in collaboration with the science classes by showing scientific movies.

After the meeting in the Auditorium the members and some of the faculty adjourned to the Raleigh Club rooms where refreshments were served and the new members got acquainted with the old.

When interviewed last week about the Raleigh Club pins, Father Kroekle announced that contact had been made with five different companies concerning the purchase of the pins.

Dean Announces CAA For Second Semester

According to the Rev. Dr. Henry Lucks, C.P.P.S., dean of studies, the C.A.A. student flying program will not be offered this semester but will be continued next semester.

The C.A.A. course, first introduced on the campus of St. Joe last year, produced six licensed student pilots. Although the participants are limited, the enthusiasm shown by a number of students to take the course should make this an even more successful year.

Ducky, What?

Upperclassman Swims Throwing In Rookie

Rookie John Williams became the envy of all the freshmen last week when he did accidentally what no freshman ever dared to do purposely.

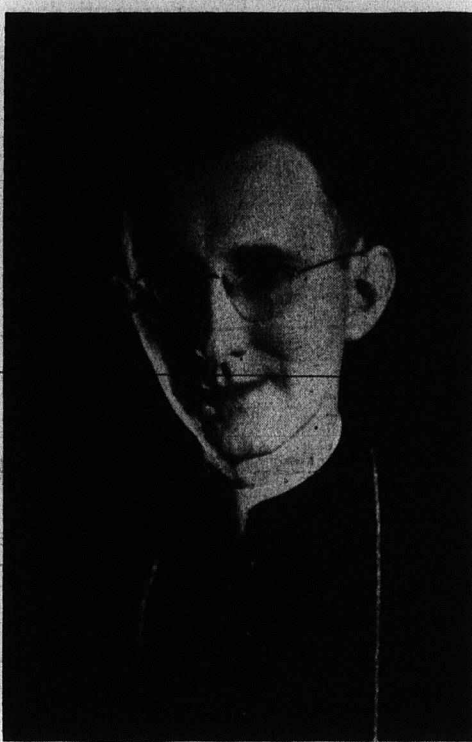

It happened on the closing day of the Raleigh Club initiation when the upperclassmen were baptizing the rookies.

It seems that John didn't let loose of initiator Jim McDermott when Jim was throwing him in.

Jim said, while ringing out his clothes, that the water was fine.

Offer Suggestions For Staging Drama In Amateur Theatre

A drama clinic, open to all members of the Catholic Youth Organization in northern Indiana, will be sponsored Sunday, November 2, by St. Joseph's College.

REV. PAUL SPECKBAUGH

The program will be as follows:

1 p. m., a lecture on play selection by the Rev. Dr. Paul Speckbaugh, C.P.P.S.; 2 p. m., a lecture on direction, by the Rev. Robert Koch, C.P.P.S.; 3 p. m., an open forum on stage technicalities—which will include lighting, make-up, and the designing of sets—by William Pietz; 4 p. m., a lecture on play publicity by Edward Fischer.

To Repeat Production

Lectures by Fathers Speckbaugh, Koch, and Mr. Fischer will be of half hour duration and will be followed by a fifteen-minute question period.

The clinic will be brought to a close with the repetition of "You Can't Take It With You," at 7 p. m. in the College Theatre.

The one-day drama school is offered by the college as a free service to the Catholic Youth Organizations.

Fans Will Depart For Bloomington Saturday Morning

Plans for the student trip to Illinois Wesleyan next Saturday were furthered when Father Roof disclosed detailed information on transportation.

Out of the three bids handed in, the Southern Limited Bus Lines' prices were the most favorable. The round trip price will be $2.70. The price of the game ticket has not yet been revealed by Illinois Wesleyan.

The bus will leave in early morning and will return late that evening. For further information watch the bulletin boards.

Curtain Club Arranges Tryouts For New Drama

The Curtain Club met Saturday, October 11, in the club room of Xavier Hall. After minor points of business were disposed of, attention was turned to the coming play. Father Koch announced that the cue-books had arrived and that tryouts would take place some time this week.

Following a talk by the Reverend moderator, the officers, elected at the last meeting, gave their acceptance speeches. President Robert Lechnor spoke on Catholic Drama and the Modern Theater. In the speech he stressed particularly the predominant paganism of present theatrical productions.

Before the close of the meeting a small program was presented.

Band Will Accompany Team To Bloomington

St. Joseph's marching band will accompany the student trip to the St. Joe-Illinois Wesleyan game at Bloomington, Illinois, Saturday, October 13, to provide a musical initiative in the Puma cheering section.

The Rev. Robert Koch, C.P.P.S., the band field director, and Professor Paul Tonner, band director, will accompany the thirty-six members and the drum-major on the trip.

Father Sheeran III In Chicago Hospital

Rev. Joseph A. Sheeran, C.P.P.S., rector of Seifert Hall, is expected to return to the college late this week from St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Chicago, where he has been under the treatment of a doctor for an extremely heavy cold and bronchial ailment during the past week.

Although Father Sheeran will return to the campus this week, it is not definitely known as yet when he will resume his classes.

Actress Interprets Various Characters In Drama Monologue

Myrtyl Ross, popular American actress, widely known for her characterizations of famous women in history, will appear in Alumni Theater, Oct. 18, in a program of original monodramas.

This gifted actress has had a most distinguished stage career. Her first appearance on the stage was as a child singing prodigy. At fifteen she joined a stock company; and it was not long before she was taking important roles in successful musical productions sent out of New York. She was leader and director of her own stock company for thirteen years.

MYRTYL ROSS

Best In Monologues

But it is as the sole entertainer that Miss Ross is supreme. Her program of feminine characterizations, most of them in costume, grouped under the heading of "The Weaker Sex," include such fascinating great women of history as Catherine the Great, Queen Victoria, Joan of Arc, and short humorous sketches of everyday modern types.

Her sketches are not mere impersonations. While they resemble the studies for which Cornelia Otis Skinner and Ruth Draper are famous they contain more plot. Miss Ross peoples her stage with characters, who, though they never materialize, seem as much alive as the artist who asks them questions and reflects their various answers in her comments. All of her material is original.

Collegeville drama enthusiasts have something to look forward to in Miss Ross' appearance.

Thespians Study Stage Plan

Jean Wood, Joan Roy, Helen Feldhaus, Caroline Nagel, and Anita Putz study the stage layout for the CLS production, "You Can't Take It With You." They are members of the local CYO.

Homecoming Bonfire Will Be Started Soon

The traditional bonfire of St. Joseph's College, will again send its flames of cheer and good fellowship to the sky.

Under the auspices of the sophomore class, plans are being formulated to conduct the ceremony on Homecoming, November 1, north of the fieldhouse.

Prexy Bob Burns, of Fort Wayne, Indiana, whose freshmen have been "unanimously" delegated by the student body to supply the wood, states that their one ambition is to collect one of the largest piles of combustible material ever seen.

Sophomore secretary, Jim Bogan, of Decatur, Indiana, has this bit of sage advice to impart to the "wearers of the green."

"We would like to impress the freshmen with the importance of gathering wood for our fire. It may prove to be a little difficult to collect material, but the merchants of Rensselaer will be glad to cooperate in giving you their old boards and boxes. Remember, a little work now may prevent a lot of hurt feelings later."

Members of the Raleigh Club will help build the bonfire according to the latest report. A large pile of boxes and other usable material has been assembled as the Raleigh Club's contribution.

APPLIED CATHOLIC ACTION

So many times comes the query—"How can I participate in the Catholic Action program? What can I do to help?" Perhaps because the question is so obviously answered, many pass over the solution in their search. But the application of Catholic Action is as simple as living the Catholic life. For that's what it amounts to when all is said and done.

But for those who want to make some appreciable effort for the promotion of Catholic Action in Collegeville, we might say: Join the Sanguinist Club, become an active member; write to the newspapers' letters columns when statements opposed to Catholic thought are printed in the commercial press. An excellent opportunity came last week when the President made his declaration that Russia enjoys the same religious liberty as citizens of the United States. How many from here wrote their newspapers in protest? That's Catholic Action.

Or, again, last Sunday was the second Sunday of the month. That means only one thing: Holy Name Sunday. If you fulfilled your obligation to the society and received Holy communion, you are a Catholic Actionist. If you did not, but are seeking for an answer to your active participation in the program for Catholic Action, you have your answer. Live a Catholic life. All else is subsidiary.

Last week's pep meeting was a beginning. But only a beginning. The next two games on the Pumas' schedule are out-of-town engagements. It's one thing to play on your home field, with the student body loudly backing you. It's an altogether different thing to play away from home, where the cheers are all for your opponent.

If some of us gathered in the College theatre last Friday night before the first home game, all of us should gather there this week to bid the team "good luck" against Illinois Wesleyan. The theatre should be crowded—as crowded as it might be for any other program. And the cheering should be loud and long.

A pep meeting can only be what all of us make it. If few of us respond, and few of us stand up to sing the Fight Song, the pep session will fail. If all of us respond, it can't. Don't leave the pep sessions to George and John. Tom, Dick and Harry should be there, too.

THE FIRST TASTE of football came to Collegeville last Saturday. And it was a victorious taste as the Pumas swept down their opponents to remain undefeated so far this season. But the campus was silent over the weekend as the vast majority moved out to the open spaces over Sunday and Monday.

Now we can look forward to the student trip Saturday... There is much talk about the approach of Homecoming, much worrying about getting that last-minute date. But the movie cameras grind incessantly. And so for the reviews of the week.

Friday and Saturday at the RITZ

"Puddin' Head" brings radio's lively Judy Canova back to the screen in another one of those delightful—if silly—rural stories. For once Judy is backed up with a splendid supporting cast that includes Francis Lederer and the ever-popular Slim Summerville. Legion Rating: A-1.

Sunday, Monday, Tuesday at the PALACE

Here it is at long last—Orso Welles' mighty "Citizen Kane," the moving, dramatic story of the rise of a great newspaper publisher, presented with all the powerful realism that has made Welles' work with the Mercury Theatre so satisfactory. Legion Rating: A-2.

Cinemaddicts who like a heavy dish once in a while on their movie menu just can't afford to miss this feature. It boasts rather revolutionary photography and many brilliant performances.

Sunday, Monday, Tuesday at the RITZ

Bob Young and petite Ruth Hussey are cast together in Metro's "Married Bachelor." This is the story of a young husband whose success as an author wins him a radio program dishing out marital advice to the glibbie feminine gender. Entertaining is the best word for features of this kind. Legion Rating: Unavailable.

Wednesday and Thursday at the RITZ

Button up that coat collar a little more, get set for some chills... Charley Chan is back again. This time it's "Charley Chan in Rio," with Sidney Toler and Mary Beth Hughes. Legion Rating: A-1.

❖ Campus Capers ❖

Who can think of a good way to start this off after Steve Theodosius' true speech on school loyalty at the pep meeting Friday nite... Here's hopin' that some of the "take it for granted" boys are infused with some spirit in one way or another... James Ikovic we hear has found a firm friendship in the freshman class in one of "Cross" Hankish's acquaintances...

Let's not forget Bill Pietz though—Mr. Pietz has become what is uncommonly called a tonsorial artist of the first water. Jack Vilim has been after him for a couple of days to give him a little trimming on the noggin—We never thought Bill was one to withhold an unknown art...

Very seldom is it that the name of one person hits this column twice in a row, but this week history is made, for James Lavelle is IT... Mrs. Lavelle's boy Apple was the recipient of a five-page letter as a result of his success at wolfin' in Fowler... Ray Heitzman has a gory nature—the boy is literally bloodthirsty—for the other afternoon he seemed to enjoy some bloody fisticuffs...

Plungin' Pete and Slingin' Sam seem to have acquired the knack of not only upsetting opponents—BUT—also of absconding with a little of Butler's femininity who were up to the game last week-end... Doc O'Loughlin and Eddy Bandjough spent the better part of Saturday morning worryin' as to whether or not they were coming up from Kankakee... Then Dick Haffner went to Fort Wayne last week-end to get a little studying done on his cranium as to causes for the effect of lack of stuff...

This week's distinction as the Wolf of the Week is handed on a big platter to none other than the Jasper Wolf, Mauri Gutgsell... The boy from down by the Ohio has decided to take up a little skatin' and in the process has an action shot... but more interesting is the wording that appears on the pillar behind the subject!!!... Red Adams with his roommate Snag Klapheke have created themselves as public nuisances to Drexel's first floor and second... Johnny Hyland seems to have enjoyed dancing of late, but maybe it is the partner from the nearby metropolis—while Johnny Risch is giving a local charmer lessons in ballet dancing...

Now across the horizon comes Frank Benchik, Flowerpot to most... The fellow from East Chi. is getting all kinds of entreaties to drop home and see to it that his flower is kept bloomin'... And so now we leave with everyone ready for the 1st and if you're not then just see Teddy Wleklinski and he'll show you how it's done...

Build Up School Spirit Is The General Comment

By John Ford

Small colleges can boast of an advantage that is not nearly so dominant in the larger institutions of learning throughout the country. Invariably you will find a great school spirit existing in the smaller college.

This is, of course, as it should be, because spirit does make the school great no matter what the enrollment figures argue. Countless are the examples that demonstrate this fact: A genuine school spirit makes any school big.

This week STUFF goes to the students with this question: "What do you think can be done to increase school spirit here at Collegeville?"

Tom Cooney, a freshman from Woodstock, Ill., ventured this suggestion: "I believe that we should have more pep rallies. They should be planned, exciting affairs with the band and cheers whooping it up."

"I feel that if the upper classmen would demonstrate a genuine spirit the younger boys would join in. After all, a spirit like anything else must be nourished." These are the words of Allen Rinderly, a sophomore from Sandusky, Ohio.

Francis Kinney, a junior from Ironton, Ohio, says, "I think that we should have more social functions and interclass affairs. A good social life is as much a part of education as classroom instruction. I cannot help but feel that a good social life would be a means to a good school spirit."

A freshman, Bill Dawson, from New Haven, Ky., suggests, "Students should be made acquainted with school tradition, school songs, the team and the spirit expected at St. Joe."

Joe Connolly, a sophomore from Louisville, Ky., had this to say: "I feel that the fellows themselves must learn to love their school. I don't believe that spirit can be put into any group. A boy that does not believe in his school has no business attending it. We students should be unselfish and think of each other more."

So were the opinions. These and Secretary of the senior class, Raleigh club, and Camera club, are but a few of the duties of Frank Benchik. He has a thesis to write and is connected with the staff of the yearbook, Phase. The army also has a call for Frank's services, but doesn't think he will have to worry about that until after graduation.

During his stay here on the campus, Frank has been majoring in Chemistry. Along with his major, he has the requisites to enter Medical school if he decides to do so. Benny, as he is called by the rookies, came to St. Joseph's from Hammond Central Catholic high school, but his home is in East Chicago, Indiana. In high school, basketball was his main extra-curricular interest, but now that has dropped to the intra-mural phase.

The Camera Club has Frank listed as a charter member. The Raleigh Club has received his dues for four years. In his junior year he represented his class on the Student Council.

more that could not be expressed in such a limited space indicate that the upperclassmen are expected to start the proverbial ball rolling. The athletic department is expected to arrange more and better pep rallies. So, we might say that all of Collegeville's residents could adopt a snappy football cheer. Let's all Go! Go! Go!

Puma Power Crushes Central Normal 20 to 0

Puma Prints

By Bill Carlos

That St. Joe has a good ball club seems to be a thoroughly proven fact. Four straight victories and the lead in the Indiana Conference race back this up. But a good school spirit, which should be in evidence regardless of the team's showing, is lagging on our campus.

Referring to the pep session the night before the Central Normal game, Capt. Steve Theodosius said, "It is by far the worst I have seen in my four years here at school"; and Steve isn't the kind of a guy who misses pep sessions.

The get-together in the auditorium last Friday night flopped because less than a hundred students out of a body of almost five hundred showed their faces. True, many of the students utilized the three day week-end to go home for the first time. Quite a few of these fellows left Friday afternoon, and this may be excused if they live a great distance, but any fellow who would stay in his room or go up town while a pep rally is in session, (and there were plenty of them) should be tossed in the lake by those who are proud of their team.

This Saturday is the student trip to Bloomington, Ill., for the Illinois Wesleyan game. It is a good opportunity for those who couldn't or didn't do their share last week-end to show Joe and the boys that they really do appreciate the way they have been playing ball by backing the team to Bloomington.

Expenses for the trip will call for a little budgeting and self sacrifice in most cases, but it is a good investment. We have never heard anyone come home from a student trip squawking about not getting their money's worth. So let's all go down and make Illinois Wesleyan's homecoming look like a homecoming for St. Joe also.

Bob Farrell, President of the Junior class, and a few of his henchmen deserve a lot of credit for decorating the football field last Saturday. That's a real example of school spirit.

Pete Varini, star Puma fullback,

Opening Home Game Starts Out Slowly, Ends Up 20-0 Win

After a rather hectic and apparently careless first half, the Pumas finally came to and played football to beat Central Normal of Danville, Ind., 20-0 last Saturday on the home grounds. It was the fourth straight win for the Pumas and set them up as the leading contenders for the Indiana Conference title.

Although the Pumas outplayed their opponents throughout the first half, their jumpy nerves held them from scoring. Six first downs were made to CN's one; three fumbles proved costly, for they happened just as the Pumas were in scoring position. The fumbles occurred on the 15, the 12, and the 23-yard lines after the ball had been worked up field in steady drives.

The first Puma tally came in the third period when Pete Varini, fullback, went through the center of the line on a spinner and raced 32 yards to a touchdown. Nick Scollard's attempt from placement for the extra point went wide. Tom Scollard put the St. Joe team in scoring position by recovering a fumble by Boalbey, fullback, on the Warriors' 32.

In the first minute of the fourth period the Pumas scored by bringing the ball from the 20 to the three from which Captain Steve Theodosius drove through tackle for the second score. Nick Scollard's toe proved good on the conversion, the score, 13-0.

The final register came late in the fourth with Plunging Pete Varini going over from the three for his second touchdown of the day. Scollard again placed the spiral through the posts to make the final score read St. Joe, 20; CN, 0.

smashed his way into the scoring lead of the entire state with two touchdowns against Central Normal. This gives Pete a total of 30 points. Dippy Evans of Notre Dame and McGovern of Rose Poly are tied for second with 24 points each.

Coach Joe Dienhart Has Bow Coming For His Work

For the past twelve years Joe Dienhart has been prominent in the direction of athletics in the state of Indiana. He began his athletic career at Jefferson High School, Lafayette. While attending Notre Dame, '22-'25, he earned letters in football and basketball. He transferred to Butler where he saw action with the Bulldog varsities, and where he received his Bachelor of Arts degree in Business Administration.

Won Four Crowns

From the fall of 1920 until the summer of 1938 he coached at Cathedral High School, Indianapolis. His football team won four city championships; his cage team won the State Catholic Championship in '29, '31, '33, '34, and was runner up in '32. In '32 his team reached the semi-finals and in '33 they won the National Catholic Tournament Championship.

Since his coming to St. Joe in '38 the Pumas under Joe have gained renown. His basketball team has brought him and St. Joseph's into the limelight of the cage world. His baseball teams have been scouted, and his material taken away by the major league ball clubs. Now the '41 grid team—four straight! Possibilities of an undefeated season loom in the future. St. Joe owes much to Joe Dienhart. He has produced under great handicaps. He has brought the school a name in collegiate sports. His record as a coach has been one steady climb in one direction—upward!

Lapsys Crashes Through

Here is the Puma quarterback, Stan Lapsys, scampering down field with the leather during last Saturday's encounter with Central Normal.

Plungin' Pete Leads Indiana Scorers' Championship Race

"Plunging Pete" Varini, the Puma fullback, picked up two more touchdowns in Saturday's game to hold his lead in the Indiana Conference scoring race with a total of 30 points. Nick Scollard, end, is tied with Alex Boalbey of Central Normal for fourth place with 12 points.

An analysis shows Ed McGovern of Rose Poly, who also picked up two more touchdowns over the weekend, behind Varini with 24 points.

Owen "Dippy" Evans is leading the "Big Three" (N. D., Purdue, and Indiana) with his previous total of 24. Steve Juzwik, Evans' teammate at N. D., picked up 14 markers over the weekend to take second place with a total of 22. Hillenbrand and Jacoby of Indiana, rank in third with 12 apiece. Purdue's Boilermakers have yet to threaten in the race.

Varini, who placed second in the state last season with a final of 54 points, is well ahead of his last year's mark at this time. With five more games to be played, Pete has a good chance to take undisputed possession of the high scorer crown.

Titan Host To Puma Team And Students At Homecoming Tilt

Saturday's battle with Illinois Wesleyan will be all important to Joe Dienhart and his Pumas. The Titans have become the team to beat! They will be in top form, for the game date is their Homecoming day and will also mark the dedication of their new two hundred thousand dollar stadium.

Bloomington will be a crowded town, with the Illini crowd out to see the Titans comeback after their setback by Youngstown U. last week, and with the Pumas' followers out to see them continue their undefeated string.

Lack Reserve Power

Coach Don Heap, former All-American back of Northwestern, has something in common with our own mentor, Joe Dienhart, in that he lacks a sufficient number of reserves. The Titans throw their confidence in the air behind the pitching arm of their captain, Chet Wetterlund, who is considered one of the best triple-threat passing backs in the midwest.

Wesleyan dropped their opener to Marshall of Va. by a large one-sided score, but defeated Carroll of Wisconsin 9-0. The outcome of Saturday's game should give us a hint of what to expect from Carroll on our own Homecoming day, November 1.

Watch For Kick

Harry Wilk, though seldom seen carrying the ball, is considered the mainstay of the backfield in his role of blocking quarterback. Lyle Lanz, 215 pound All-Conference tackle, is the outstanding lineman.

Both sides are going to be on edge because of the importance of victory to each. It should be the most interesting as well as the most colorful game on either's schedule.

Academy Cubs Take Tilt Against Remington 6-3

St. Joseph's Puma Cubs won their fourth victory in five starts Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 8, by defeating a Remington nine 6 to 3.

Coming from behind in the last inning with the score tied at 3 to 3, the Cubs scored three runs to clinch the victory as the game was called on account of darkness. Joe Joseph won his third victory of the season although in hot water most of the way. He drove in the deciding run in the last inning.

St. Joseph's could garner but five hits, these being divided among Leahy, Hall, Stuhlmuehler, Joseph and Ruschau.

Score by innings:

Electric Oven Installed In Collegeville Bakery

One of the finest improvements made at St. Joseph's lately was the installation of the new Edison Hot-point electrical bake oven in the college bakery.

According to Mr. Paul Gates, the college baker, the new double-decked oven, which is automatically controlled, has eliminated the fire hazards of the old ovens, since it does not use a flame.

The new time-saving unit bakes more evenly and gives the cakes more volume and a better grade than the old ovens.

It was also noted that the faculty have been provided with a new dining room. A guest dining hall has also been added.

I-M Football Starts Playoff This Sunday

Because of the holiday last Monday, the inter-hall game between Gasper and Xavier Halls was postponed. The schedule will get under way this Sunday morning however, with those teams playing at 10 o'clock.

Seifert, who drew a bye in the first round, will meet the winner of that game on the following Sunday, Oct. 26. Drexel, the present title holders, will tussle with Noll in the third game of the elimination tournament.

The final championship game date has been left open. The winner will take the coveted plaque which Drexel Hall has had on display for the past year.

Geology Laboratory Adds To Specimens

The collection of geological specimens in the geology laboratory was greatly enhanced during the past week with the presentation to the lab of rare and beautiful samples of minerals and stones.

Among the stones, which were given to the school by Rev. Paul Dobberstein of West Bend, Iowa, were specimens of sulfur, quartz crystals, masses of cave deposits, polished petrified wood and a large calcit crystal.

One round stone was composed of different varieties of quartz which were arranged in concentric layers throughout the specimen. The yellowish-green calcite crystal was judged by Rev. Carl Nieset, C.P.P.S., geology instructor, as being extremely large and rare for one complete crystal.

Campus visitors over Homecoming week-end, will find Drexel Hall—traditional home of the upperclassmen—shining and resplendent.

It all started two weeks ago, on a Saturday, when the residents of Drexel turned out by the score to give their front yard a facial uplift.

A note, signed by the senior class, exhorted the boys to attend the festivities which entailed mowing and raking the grass, trimming the trees, and a general cleanup of the grounds.

STUFF Delegates Travel To Chicago Convention

At a regional press conference held at Providence high school, Chicago, October 11, St. Joseph's was represented by the Faculty Adviser of STUFF, the Rev. S. H. Ley, C.P.P.S., and two members of the staff, Richard Schreiber and Jack Ford.

Schreiber, editor of STUFF, addressed the morning panel of the conference on the subject, "Procedure for Writing the Editorial."

Delegates were present from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Iowa.

Highlight of the meeting came when Helen C. White, famous novelist, delivered an address entitled, "Writing the Historical Romance."

Dream Makers Appear

At a meeting held last Sunday evening, the Knights of Columbus group of Rensselaer was entertained by a number of popular pieces played by Jerry Koller and his Dream Makers. The meeting was held in the basement of St. Augustine's church.

The Reverends Cletus Kern and Raphael Gross, C.P.P.S., and Ed Bubola led the parade and directed the energies. Fr. Kern, by the way, swings a mean scythe.

After nigh on to four hours cavorting under a warm sun the students retired to the showers, well satisfied with the results of their efforts, hoping, too, their homecoming dates will be of the same opinion.

The Academy Corner

By Joe Collier

The 449th Anniversary of Columbus' birthday left the Academy quite deserted. Everybody seemed intent on how fast he could get to his habitual abode. A few stragglers waited to see St. Joseph's drub Central Normal Saturday afternoon, but the general opinion was "Home Sweet Home."

A ping-pong and pool tournament are on the verge of starting at the Academy. Shortly before vacation Brother Louis asked for participants, the entrance fee being five or ten cents. Tom Domsic is a favorite for the pool tournament while Joe Wolford should take the ping-pong easily.

Wednesday night, October 9, Father Martin requested volunteer servers from the Academy. Quite a few responded and for those who are desirous of learning, ample opportunity will be provided.

The Basketball Team

Baseball is over, the Academy has no football team, so we take time out to say a few words about our coming basketball team. The team this year will be built around five returning regulars: Bob Greene, Johnny Wunderlich, Joe Wolford, Joe Joseph and Bob Schmelter. Strong contenders also for the first team will be Bob Neise, Bob Miller, Johnny Gavin, Jerry Leahy, Caspar Brading and Dick Latendresse. The team is hoping for a good season. They rely mainly on the smooth ball-handling of the boys of last year's team. The schedule will be printed later.
